3 Brotherssss Indian Restaurant

We caught up with Deepak from 3 Brotherssss Indian Restaurant to learn more about the Market's new Indian restaurant.

Tell us about 3 Brotherssss:

We are a family business and, as the name suggests, we are three brothers who decided to open our first restaurant to share our love and passion for Indian cuisine. A lot of people wonder why we added the extra "SS" in our trading name. They are our parents' initials (Subhash Shashi), as nothing would have been possible without them. As longtime Queen Victoria Market shoppers, we found a great opportunity to be part of the Market and it really has been the perfect spot for our dream restaurant.

Where do you get the inspiration for your dishes?

The main inspiration is the mouth-watering street food in Delhi. Most of the items on our menu are from the Northern part of India and we try to keep it as authentic as possible.

What are 3 Brotherssss specialty dishes?

Our speciality dishes are Butter Chicken, Brothers Special Mahkni Paneer, Brothers Special Chicken Malai Tikka and Biryani. We offer a lot of vegan and vegetarian options also.

MAKING A GREAT MARKET EVEN BETTER

Through the renewal of the Queen Victoria Market and surrounding precinct, the Market's heritage is being restored while delivering modern facilities to make the Market work better for traders, customers and visitors, and revitalising this growing part of the city.

Work is continuing to progress with construction of the new Food Hall underway, two thirds of heritage shed restoration works complete, and services being installed to improve access for traders to power, lighting, water and organic waste.

Other activity within the precinct includes the arrival of experimental arts space Testing Grounds next to the Market Square Pop-Up Park, and planning for a new city library in the Munro development on the corner of Queen and Therry Streets opposite the Market.
